

Example of a news letter called 5 reasons why I love my home town. People can use this to give them an idea in writing a positive piece about their community to gain interest.

It is not hard for me to give 5 reason why I love my home town of Evanston IL. There is so much to offer in Evanston. We are a community sitting right on the edge of Chicago and have a feel of a little city and not quite a suburb. In Chicago it is often hard to park your car and in Evanston it always easy. We have the beautiful Lake Michigan lake front with six different beaches and that includes one dog beach and one boat launch. I love to hang out at the beaches and walk in the parks. Lakefront Beaches.

The architecture in Evanston is wonderful There is a wide range of homes that includes historic landmarks, the Chicago style Bungalow, large mansions, Queen Anne Victorians and just about anything else in between. I am a member of the Evanston History Center have enjoyed taking part in the activities provided for many years.

We have one of the best places for an education in Northwestern University. Considered to be among the best place to earn a degree NU is also known for its great research and giving back to society. Northwestern was named after the founder of Evanston, John Evanston and became Evan's Town and then Evanston. Northwestern is such a large research university with its comprehensive doctoral program that attracts over $550 million in sponsored research each year.

The excellent public transportation in Evanston allows you to get to downtown Chicago in about 20 minutes via the Metra and El trains. People move here just for that reason alone. You can see people walking to the train in the morning and coming back in the evening, no need for an automobile.

Entertainment is fantastic in Evanston. I could on and on with the choices, but to name a few there is live music in Space which has national touring acts, to excellent theater at the Fleetwood-Jourdain.

The public schools in Evanston IL are also a reason to move here, our district 65 elementary and middle schools and our high school called Evanston Township High School or ETHS offers so many options that it is considered a reason to call Evanston home to set your children up for a wonderful future.

This is this a few of the reason I love Evanston. If you ever come to town look me up and I will tell you even more.

Noah Seidenberg

Noahzark is my Active Rain user name.